HALFMOON BAY NOTES

Prof H. C. Hall was in San Francisco last Saturday in the interests of the grammar school library. Mr. Hall says that the number of volumes is to be materially increased.

Passing autoists near Salada were horrified Tuesday to see a human head protrude from a gravel bank. It proved to be a man from Colma who was hauling gravel. Carelessly he had undermined the steep bank and it caved and engulfed him. The man was dead when discovered.

Tuesday the high school auto bus turned over at a corner near the Occidental Hotel, Halfmoon Bay. No one was seriously injured. The glass in wind shield was broken and one fender dislodged. The auto was on its way to Cunha Hall to get the chairs used at the entertainment given by the seniors last Saturday evening. The Ford was not put out of commission and was used in bringing the triangle students home.

Bob Silva was tried before Justice of the Peace Ellis C. Johnson in Daly City last Wednesday. Silva is a farmer who lives near San Gregorio. He is charged with having killed a female deer last year. The charge was preferred by Game Warden Jack Burke. One of Silva's farm hands was sentenced to a term in the county jail for a similar offense. The defendant was acquitted. Frances Bobb of San Francisco ac- week end in Moss Beach.

Much indignation was felt at Marine View last Sunday on account of the conduct of a few men—visitors of course, because they don't belong on the coastside—who paraded the beach in a decidedly scant attire. It was scandalous, and drove many family parties away from the beach. We understand that the sheriff of San Mateo county will be asked to appoint a number of daupty sheriffs to take care of this class of visitors in the future. It seemed to be a case of too much "annexation" with different brands.

Editor Harr Wagner of the Western Journal of Education, is slowly and painfully recovering from the terrible mastoid operation performed at the hospital on the 20th of February. The wounds in his head still bleed and have to be dressed daily by the doctor, and to add to the pain and sleeplessness of it he was siezed with a severe attack of tonsilitis. Tuesday, one month from the first operation, was his birthday and his daughter, Miss Morris Wagner, took a box of Montara eatings, consisting of a fat hen, artichokes, some crisp white radishes, a basket of new laid eggs, a little round cheese of goat milk, some garnishing of curled parsley, and a bunch of pink baby roses, to celebrate the day. Mrs. M. B. Johnson had the delicacies of the dinner with the ice rcream and a wonderful birthday cake all ready, and together they prepared a dinner fit for the king (or the Goddess of Liberty), but Mr. Wagner was too ill to eat it.

DOES NOT ALLOW CHOICE MADE

Martin Morris, who passed a bogus check on the Blue Bird drug store in San Mateo last fall and then broke his parole a few weeks ago by getting drunk in South San Francisco, was sentenced by Judge Buck Wednesday morning to serve three years in San Quentin. It seems that Morris had already served one term in Folsom for issuing bad checks, and when Judge Buck passed sentence, the prisoner begged to be sent to Folsom instead of San Quentin. Judge Buck refused the request, however, declaring that the circumstances would not warrant him in granting the defendant any favors. It is quite unusual for a prisoner to ask to be sent to Folsom, as the work in the jute mill at San Quentin is said to be easier than the rock pile at Folsom. While on probation, Morris worked for Attorney John Bourdette at Belmont.

STAND FOR COUNTY INTEREST

People of San Mateo county may feel proud of their two representatives at Sacramento. Both did good and effective work for the passage of constitutional amendment guaranteeing a permanent borough system to the county in case of annexation with San Francisco. They had a difficult task to perform but they were not discouraged and finally accomplished their purpose. The citizens of the county may well say, "Well done thou good and faithful servants."

Poor Papa!

"I am not at all certain," said the father, "that my daughter loves you sufficiently to warrant me in intrusting her to your keeping for life."

"Well," replied the young man, "perhaps you haven't had the same advantages for observing things that I have."

"It is amazing," said the young man, "how it happens that when you have a swell girl on your arm and you are only 25 cents strong you will see restaurants in every spot where the day before there were only vacant lots."—Exchange.

THE WEEK'S EVENTS IN LOCAL CIRCLES

Redwood City as Seen Through Incidents Gathered Here and There

The grammar and high schools of this city closed yesterday for the Easter vacation of one week.

George Gilbert leaves next week for Palo Robles springs. After spending a week there he will go to his ranch not far from the town of Palo Robles to spend two months.

Charles W. McCracken, the popular clerk of the First National Bank, was appointed a deputy sheriff yesterday by Sheriff M. Sheehan. He will be given his badge today.

Dr. J. P. H. Dykes has purchased a new enclosed Reo automobile. It is the very latest car manufactured, having all modern improvements. The doctor will use it in making his professional calls. It is a three passenger machine.

R. J. Shields, who has been chief engineer of the Spring Valley pumping works at Belmont, has been appointed to take charge of the pumping works at Millbrae which has been shut down for the past year. Mr. Shields will have complete charge of the plant.

Bay View Lodge, I. O. O. F., at a recent meeting appointed a committee composed of the following members to prepare for the annual picnic to be held at Fernbrook Park on Saturday, April 28: E. B. Fox, John Layng, F. W. Glennan, H. W. Lampkin and C. Jones. The annual outing of the lodge is usually held on April 26 but the members thought best to give the school children an opportunity to attend.

William Jamieson, the plumber, has purchased a five passenger touring car from D. Flynn, the local agent for the Ford automobile.

James Kane, who spent the winter in Los Angeles, has returned to this city. While in the South he suffered a severe attack of pneumonia and for a while his life was despaired of. Mr. Kane likes the South but perfers Redwood City as a place of residence. Mr. Kane has lived here for over a quarter of a century.

Henry Butts, is very low at his home. The attending physicians say he cannot recover. On Thursday he executed a deed to all his property giving it to his wife and daughter. Mr. Butts has for a great many years been prominent in the political affairs of the county. He was a deputy sheriff under the late Philip McEvoy and continued in the position under the late J. H. Mansfield for several years. Mr. Butts was raised on the coastside of the county where he owns a valuable ranch.

Yesterday Health Officer Dr. W. G. Beattie of Colma swore to a complaint against Dr. John P. Frizell of Pescadero charging him with exposing a patient afflicted with typhoid fever in public and dangerous to the public health. The complaint alleges that Daniel Adrian of Pescadero was sent out in a stage crowded with passengers to San Francisco while in this afflicted condition. Dr. Frizell was brought over from Pescadero yesterday and lodged in the county jail. He will be tried in Judge Seely's court this morning.

At a recent meeting of the general committee of the Fourth of July celebration a banner inscribed, "Spend the Fourth of July in Redwood City," was adopted to be used or displayed on the windshield of automobiles. The banners are to be had on application to L. F. Winkler, secretary of the general committee. Every owner of a machine should secure a banner. The committee is encouraged by the prompt response of the general public. There is hardly any doubt but that the celebration will be one of the most successful ever held in the county seat.

The directors of the Standard Guaranty Mortgage Corporation at a meeting held last Saturday declared its third regular dividend covering the six months period ending February 26 and payable on April 1st at the rate of seven per cent per annum. The concern is doing a splendid business. It is receiving numerous requests for big loans. The dividend declared is very good considering the stringency of the money market. The manager, D. Stokes O'Callaghan is a wide awake business man with a large experience and a gentleman in whom the public has confidence and feels safe in entrusting him with their money.

William Sullivan, who was electrocuted near this city last Sunday, was a native of Salinas, aged 21 years. His parents predeceased him some years ago. The funeral took place on Wednesday from Mount Carmel church and interment was in Holy Cross cemetery. On Sunday accompanied by a few companions, Sullivan went for an outing in the hills. On returning home, in a spirit of frolic, he climbed an electric light pole belonging to the Pacific Gas and Electric Company and came in contact with a live wire of big voltage and was badly burned. He lived for several hours after being taken down. He is survived by four brothers, J. F. Sullivan residing in San Francisco, M. Sullivan living in Salinas, P. Sullivan residing at Irvington and Thomas Sullivan living at Sacramento.

INDICTMENT DISMISSED—

Judge Buck on Tuesday rendered a decision in the case of the people against Mrs. A. W. Pike granting the motion of J. J. Bullock, appearing for defendant, to set aside the so-called amended indictment. Bullock asked that it be set aside on the ground that the original indictment was void and defective and that its amendment by the district attorney was a void act, he having no authority to file such an amendment and on the further ground that the indictment was filed with the clerk and not with the court, as provided by law. Mr. Swart after the decision of Judge Buck filed an amendment to the original indictment. This and the original indictment will be heard on Thursday next when Mrs. Pike will appear to plead. Defendant's attorney contends that it is not within the province of the district attorney to amend the original indictment at this time.

TERRY-BRODERICK DUEL RECALLED

First Volume of Gazette Contains Late Supreme Judge Fox's Now Historic Record

The issue of the Gazette of September 24, 1859 contains a very interesting account of the funeral of Senator David C. Broderick. It was written by the late Charles N. Fox, who was at that time editor of the paper. The Gazette also contains an account of an indictment of Judge Terry by the grand jury on November 14, 1859. In August 20, 1860, Terry was acquitted after a long and tedious trial in the superior court of San Mateo county. This will no doubt throw new light on the Broderick-Terry duel. There are very few now living who knew of the arrest of Judge Terry. The following article appeared in the Gazette on September 24, 1859:

"Now every splendid object of ambition
Which lately, with their various glosses, pass'd
Upon my brain, and fool'd my idle heart,
Are taken from me by a little mist,
And all the world is vanished."

On Friday morning of last week, Senator D. C. Broderick breathed his last. However much or little we may have thought of the man in life, we can but regret his fall. Of the manner of that fall, it is unnecessary to say anything at this time. We gave the facts connected with it last week. Others may differ with us in opinion, and no doubt do, but we feel that his death was produced by his voluntary participation in an act which was an open violation of law, a disgrace to himself, and a dishonor to his country—that the manner of his death was such as, instead of adding to the glory of his life, deprived it of one half that which it had already attained.

However men may differ with Mr. Broderick in his political views, however they may have hated him as a partizan, there were many points in his character which they cannot but admire. He was essentially and truly the architect of his own fortunes. Born and reared in comparative obscurity, by his own energy he has marched onward and upward, until, at a very early period in life (for he died at less than forty) we find him occupying one of the highest positions which the ambition of man could aspire to, or the American people could give. He possessed an indomitable will, and an untiring energy, an extraordinary faculty to lead, and to force those who were of the same set with himself to follow him. From boyhood up, in whatever position in life he has been placed, of that faction or party to which he has attached himself, he has been emphatically a leader, and whatever political end he has sought to accomplish, even though in the minority—as he was during much of his struggle for the Senate—he has so held the majority in check as in the end to gain the object of his own desires. Perhaps the most signal defeat which he ever met in his political struggles, he met a few days before his death.

He came here in 1849, with no reputation, except that of being a ninth ward New York politician—very soon became a State Senator—from that, by appointment, president of the Senate, and eventually, by reason of the resignation of Governor McDougall, for a short period, acting governor of the state. He aspired to the United States Senate, and for four years, we think it was, he labored for that position with a a power and an energy which has seldom been exhibited, and which was at length crowned with success. Since he has held that high position, his course has been antagonistic to the party which elected him, but it has nevertheless been fearless and independent. And for this very independence, and the energy with which he advocated the cause of his espousal, he is entitled to the respect even of his enemies. Cast off by his political party, he soon gathered around him another, of the leadership of which none had the right ot dispute with him, and at the late election his course was endorsed by a very considerable proportion of the people of California.

It is said by those who knew him best, that as a man he possessed many excellent qualities of head and heart—that even those who opposed him as a politician, loved him as a neighbor and a friend. He is also said to have been very successful in whatever business he undertook—that while he has expended thousands to accomplish a political end, he has never lost a dollar in any regular business transaction in California. He was a man of regular and temperate habits, of an iron constitution and a vigorous physical frame. He has fallen in the prime of life, and in the strength of manhood. He is said to have been the last of his race, leaving no kindred behind to mourn his loss. But his untimely end will be deplored, to a greater or less extent, by the whole people; for it is characteristic of us as a nation, when one like him has fallen, to draw the veil of obscurity over all his faults, and remember only his virtues. So should it ever be—in the grave with his body, let all animosities be buried. If he possessed any good qualities, let them be remembered and enumerated.

Brave Percy! fare thee well!
Ill weaved ambition, how much art thou shrunk;
When that this body did contain a spirit.
A kingdom for it was too small a bound;
But now two paces of the vliest earth
Is room enough."

DUCK HUNTING REMINISCENCES

Story No. Five by Claude Fox Depicting Game Bird Life On Bay and Marshes

The next morning after my twelfth birthday there was no desire on my part to meet "Bill." While the disappointment I had suffered at not receiving the shot gun which had been promised me, had, to a certain extent, been placated by the presentation of a watch, I knew full well how "Bill" would feel when I broke the news to him that we would have to wait another year before our fondest dreams could be realized. We had already made our plans for a hunt on the following Saturday down by the old "First Fence" on the Sweeney ranch. I therefore attempted to avoid him, but such a thing was impossible. Breakfast was hardly over before I heard his whistle, the old familiar call, over on the "Offermann Corner" at Phelps and Main streets. As I ran across the street to meet him, expectancy shone in his eyes as it had in mine the night before. Pulling the watch out of my pocket I told him the truth very quickly, that the gun would not be mine until one year afterwards. He seemed to feel worse over the matter than myself, but we were soon in a game of marbles and our disappointment was forgotten quickly. But "Bill" had a feeling that I would never own that shot gun, and all our very elaborate preparations would go for naught.

But something happened very shortly which clinched my claim on that gun for keeps. Thanksgiving Day was coming on and the town was placarded from end to end with big posters announcing a shooting match to be held just back of where the Wahl Building now stands. As the time drew near everybody was talking about it. Turkeys, chickens and pigeons were to be the victims. Do you think for a moment "Bill" and myself did not read those posters? Well, I guess yes. What father and my uncle were going to do to those roosters was a caution. With the only breech loading shot gun in the county, they were going to show the owners of the old muzzle loaders what was what. Mother must have had visions of chicken dinners for months to come.

That Thankgiving way back in 1877 was a gala-day for Redwood City. Men came from far and near, and they brought with them the greatest collections of fire arms you would ever want to look at. Some of those old double barrels came across the plains in '49; others around the Horn, and some across the Isthmus of Panama. But do not run away with the idea that those old guns could not shoot. Far from it.

The shooting match was supposed to start at ten o'clock and "Bill" and myself were on the grounds long before that hour. Who was there? It would be impossible to remember them all. Such a crowd. Dick and Joe Leathers, the Ford boys Jack and Bill, Jack Hayes, Spot Ayres, Ben Chew, L. J. Winn, Percy Jamieson, John Titus, Jim Hilton, Claus Hadler, John Glennan, Pete Doyle, Tom Dugan, Jack Stafford, Louis Werder, Charlie Peterson, P. P. Chamberlain, the McEvoy and Eikerenkotter boys and many others. Of course father and my uncle Chet were also on deck with the shot gun "Bill" and I had dreamed of nightly. Before noon, at that shooting match, I was, by a lucky chance shot, destined to quiet any fears which "Bill" had about the gun ever becoming my property.

The will of Sigmund Schwabacher, the pioneer hardware man of San Francisco, and uncle of Albert E. Schwabacher of Menlo Park, was filed for probate in San Francisco on Wednesday. The big estate valued at $1,000,000 was bequeathed to his wife. There are several charitable bequests in the will. The Eureka Benevolent Society is bequeathed $3,000, the Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum and the Protestant Orphan Asylum each $5,000, and $2,000 to be distributed by his executors to charitable institutions in Seattle and Walla Walla. Schwabacher says that he gave $5,000 to the Pacific Hebrew Orphan Asylum before his death.

On the first of the week the Menlo Park Hotel was taken over by C. A. Vyshla, an experienced hotel man and proprietor of the Oak Grove Villa. For many years, Mr. Vyshla conducted an hotel in Great Falls, Montana, with considerable success. Mr. Vyshla and his estimable wife will conduct both hotels here, using only one dining room. Families wishing to spend the summer in Menlo Park could find no better place than the Menlo Park Hotel with its shady trees, gardens and unexcelled climate. Certainly one could find rest and comfort in these beautiful surroundings where everything is provided for the convenience of guests. Mr. Vyshla has the best wishes of the people in his new enterprise.

Bishop P. J. Muldoon of Rockford, Illinois, who was recently appointed Bishop of the diocese of Los Angeles and Monterey, is a schoolmate and boyhood friend of Postmaster E. J. Crane. They were born in Tuolumne county and raised at Stockton. Both were athletes but it was the boast of the Bishop that he always defeated the postmaster in a foot race. Over thirty years ago when both were in their teens they parted, young Muldoon going to Chicago to pursue his theological studies under the direction of his uncle, who was at that time bishop of Chicago. Mr. Crane accompanied the future bishop to Sacramento where he bid him farewell. They have not met since that time, but there will be a happy reunion when the bishop arrives in San Francisco in the course of a few weeks.

CONSIDERATE SHOW PEOPLE SET GOOD EXAMPLE

That there is a moral uplift all over the country is without question, the general public are becoming more serious and more thoughtful. This thought was driven home most forcibly when we learned that even the circus were thoughtful of the religious observance of the masses. When the Barnes wild animal circus opened its season's exhibit for the 1917 season at Los Angeles Reverend Brougher of the Temple Babpist church was asked to address the circus people and inspire in them the desire at all times to express the best within them. When the attention of the Barnes circus people was drawn to the fact that their show date in Redwood City fell on Good Friday it was immediately arranged to postpone the afternoon performance until 3 p. m. in order to follow the custom and observance of people of this city. While the doors to the big top will be open at 1 p. m. the performance will not begin until 3 p. m. The evening date will be the same as usual, door open at 7 p. m., performance at 8 p. m.
